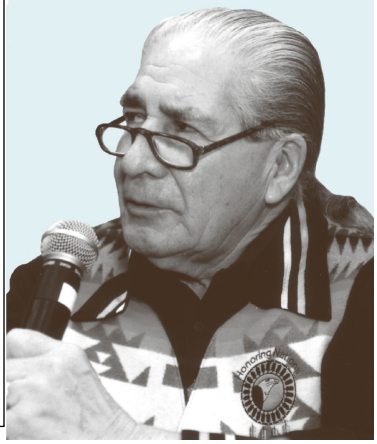
"Each generation is responsible for itself and for its future….

We must raise leaders of vision who think and make decisions in the long-term….

They teach their children so that their children may teach their own children, and their children's children, and so on for generations to come. The legacy is passed down not to ensure the present, but to guarantee the future…

Thinking of future generations is an enormous responsibility that naturally requires vision."


- Chief Oren Lyons, Onondaga leader
